Mechanical was the piping contractor for the soil remediation project at Nicor – Bloomington completed in April 2006.

We fabricated and installed pipe and electrical tray supports, while isolating supports from ground and electrical charge. We ran pipe from extraction wells to injection heads. We also received, assembled, and set all pipe processing equipment.

This work had a local environmental impact. The general contractor paved the area to minimize exposure to residential areas adjacent to the project site. Because of our hard work and dedication to safety, we pulled through with success.
